

No matter how high the resolution is,

I can't share you the touches, the scents, or the serenity I felt.

No matter how many events are shared online,

the value of real experiences never fades.